Tosca UCITS Fund a Sub-Fund of MontLake UCITS Platform ICAV, managed by MLC Management Limited EUR Institutional Class Pooled (IE00BFY6NR60)

Objectives and Investment Policy

The investment objective of the Sub-Fund is to increase the value of your shares over the long term.

The Sub-Fund will primarily invest in shares of companies listed on markets around the world in the mid to large capitalisation sectors of the markets. The Sub-Fund is not focused on any one company or region, but will be concentrated on companies which have a significant level of business in financial services and associated business sectors such as banks, e-commerce companies, real estate investment trusts and insurance institutions. The Sub-Fund may also invest in debt securities issued by such companies.

Investment may be both long and short, so the Sub-Fund may either purchase a security and hold it in expectation that the price of the security will go up (a long position), or else contract to sell a security it does not own in expectation of buying the security later at a lower price (a short position) and profiting from the fall in value. Any short positions will be taken only through the use of derivatives.

Under normal market conditions, it is expected that the Sub-Fund may have up to 112.5% of its net asset value in long positions and up to the same amount in short positions at any one time.

Investment may also be made in convertible bonds (a convertible bond is a type of debt security that can be converted into shares in the issuer), and the Sub-Fund may invest indirectly by using securities issued by investment banks and other intermediaries with a value linked to an underlying share instead of the shares themselves in certain markets where direct investment by foreign investors may be restricted.

The Sub-Fund may invest in equity indices to gain exposure to its target markets, and may also use both equity and credit indices for portfolio hedging purposes through the use of derivatives. Examples of these indices include major indices in global equity and credit markets, such as the FTSE indices, the MSCI family of indices, the CBOE volatility indices, the S&P indices, the Dow Jones Stoxx indices and the CDX and iTraxx indices.

The derivatives used by the Sub-Fund may include futures, swaps (including total return swaps), options (including options to enter into a swap or swaptions) and contracts for difference. The Sub-Fund may buy and sell foreign exchange either spot, forward or via derivatives, with the objective of hedging portfolio FX exposures.

A derivative is a contract the value of which depends on the change in price of an agreed-upon underlying financial asset, index or security. Some derivatives give the holder the economic effect of a long or short position in the underlying asset without actually having to buy or sell it directly. Other derivatives may give the holder the right to buy or sell an underlying asset.

The Sub-Fund may also invest in open-ended exchange traded funds and both open-ended and closed-ended collective investment schemes which enable the Sub-Fund to achieve its investment objective. The Sub-Fund may also invest in cash, government bonds and money market instruments for cash management purposes.

You may sell your shares in the Sub-Fund on any day that banks are open in Dublin, Ireland and London, United Kingdom. You must submit your application to the Sub-Fund's Administrator before 1.00 p.m. three business days before the day on which you want to sell.

As your shares are denominated in Euro and the Sub-Fund is valued in US Dollars, forward contracts are used to attempt to eliminate the effects of changes in the currency exchange rates against the US Dollars.

Your shares do not pay you income, but instead the Sub-Fund reinvests it to grow your capital.

Recommendation: the Sub-Fund may not be appropriate for investors who plan to withdraw their money within 5 years.

Risk and Reward Profile

The risk category for this Sub-Fund is set at 7. It is calculated in line with EU regulations and is based on the risk limit for the Sub-Fund.

A category 1 Sub-Fund is not a risk-free investment - the risk of losing your money is small, but the chance of making gains is also limited. With a category 7 Sub-Fund, the risk of losing your money is high but there is also a chance of making higher gains. The seven-category scale is complex. For example, a category 2 Sub-Fund is not twice as risky as a category 1 Sub-Fund. The risk category shown is not guaranteed and may change over time.

When categorising the Sub-Fund it may happen that not all material risks were fully captured in the methodology. For a more detailed explanation of risks, please refer to the "Special Considerations and Risk Factors" section of the prospectus.

Credit and Counterparty Risk: A counterparty may fail in paying the proceeds of sale for assets sold by the Sub-Fund or may fail in delivering securities purchased by the Sub-Fund. The Sub-Fund may also incur the risk that a counterparty may fail to settle a transaction in accordance with its terms and conditions because the contract is not legally enforceable or because it does not accurately reflect the intention of the parties or because of a dispute over the terms of the contract (whether or not bona fide) or because of a credit or liquidity problem, thus causing the Sub-Fund to suffer a loss.

Short Selling Risk: The Sub-Fund may create synthetic short positions through the use of derivatives. Short positions behave differently from long positions, and the Sub-Fund can for example come under pressure to close out short positions at short notice, and before an offsetting long position can mature. This can create unexpected losses from positions that might otherwise have been seen as low risk or well hedged.

Leverage Risk: The use of derivatives, the terms of which have the effect of magnifying the outcome of an investment in the underlying asset, to create leverage means that as well as the profits, the losses from the investment can be greater than if the investment is made directly into the underlying shares. In addition, unless the losses are capped in some way or offset by another investment, such losses could theoretically be unlimited.
